Our communication

Always sincere:

We commit ourselves to advise our clients with what's right for their benefit. Our team's client-centric mindset will be present in all our communications, from accepting only the job that we can do, communicating any issues in a timely manner while execution, till the commitment to deliver within promised timeframes.

Available & Responsive:

Technology and virtualization should help our teams in showing high presence and responsiveness to our client's requests. We will avail ourselves (Project management and sales teams) 12 hours a day and will work on increasing this number of hours to be 16 in the near future.

Clear & Consistent:

We don't overpromise our clients with things that we can't do, whether pricing, quality, selection of language pair or service,... whatever you will hear from our teams will be always the same in terms of commitment. We do that to build a strong operating model that syncs our different functions to provide you with the clearest, most consistent and unified communication.

Can-Do: All the previous values doesn't mean that we won't do our best to fulfill whatever requirements our clients have. The can-do attitude will be always on top of other values. We trained our teams to do their best, seek in-house and freelanced support to get you whatever you want happen, without impacting our credibility.

Our quality

Multiple checks:

We do multiple checks to ensure you will be happy with the quality of our deliverables

Quality vs Price:

We don't compromise quality for price. We customize our quality processes to fit for the client's expectations in terms of price, timeframe and grade of deliverable. Yet we will always communicate the details of any customizations to our quality standards upon agreeing price.

Our client relation

Looking for what's best for you

Value-based relation:

We are keen to build the win-win relations with our clients, and we commit ourselves not to get into projects where we don't see a clear opportunity to add value.

Long-term relation focus:

We tailored our processes to give more privileges to clients with long-term relations/contracts. Example of their privileges are:

Our pricing matrix is designed to give more competitive prices to long term relation clients. We dedicate resources and accumulate knowledge to continuously improve the service provided for long-term relation clients. We also dedicate communication channels with higher availability and presence.
